WHEN THE CHICKENS SING.

About the time the cocks are laid in swaths across the lot
An' dat in on the golden-rod and smoke hangs round the hills,
The evenin'-time is gittin' cool, while none are still an' hot,
An' coons is fairly a-sittin' out an' barley slowly falls,
Or Nature tunes her orchestra, when dew beads begin to fall,
Of locusts under maple leaves an' crickets everywhere;
Till all outdoors is one sweet song 'at seems to rise an' fall
Till a feller smiles to think he ever had a care.

CRADDOCK'S SPEECH.

Authentic Report of His Oration at the Fleming Barbecue.

For the Kentucky Citizen.

"Our remarks at the barbecue were that we took great pleasure in coming down where Democrats were dwelling together in unity, after we had gone through a desperate contest in which Democrats had called each such accords so that some had to be sworn to support the nominee.

"You," we said, "made the nomination unanimously, and of course, ought to see that Judge Thomas and Senator Pugh do not again win an election. While electing Rolla Hart to Congress they ought not to forget their candidates for county offices."

"In addition to the public dinner there were many delightful spreads. Mrs. Rolla Hart, wife of the next Congressman, and the Misses Darnall fed the speakers."

Harvey C. Little and Miss Anna K. Hise, both of this county, married yesterday.

VICTIMIZED MERCHANTS.

HOW THE GOLD SWINDLERS WERE CAUGHT UP WITH.

Maysville Merchants Generally Escaped, But How They Did So.

The LEDGER has already noticed the arrest by the Postal authorities of W. H. Hall, Postmaster at Wells, Martin county, C. M. Cooper of Paintsville, and Wayne Dameron of Catlettsburg, for using the United States mails for swindling purposes.

It was the custom of these fellows to order goods from merchants in various cities and to refer to each other as to their creditability.

They would buy small bills from one party in a city, pay him and then order big bills from other persons and refer the latter to the former as to their responsibility. What could the former do but answer inquiries saying that Mr. Hall or Mr. Cooper had always paid them promptly?

In this way the rascals manipulated matters until their swindles have reached more than $100,000.

They tried the game on a number of Maysville merchants at various times, but their success here was limited.

At one time they ordered a hundred guns from the Frank Owens Hardware Co., several thousand "smokers" from the Lawrenceburg Brewing Company, from the Limestone Brick Factory, from the mills, whiskey from the distilleries, and great stacks of other goods that were never shipped, because our merchants were generally "onto" the scheme.

More than a year ago the Postmaster in this city set the ball a-rolling by forwarding to the proper authorities some of the letters received here, and it has culminated in the capture of a part of the worst gang that has ever been organized for a campaign of theft.

Among the hundreds of victims here are a few, which serve to show the extent and variety of their operations:

The VanDuzen Tift Company, Cincinnati, ordered two organs, worth $300, at $137.36, which has been placed on the top of Dameron's "Blind Tiger" at Catlettsburg.

A. P. Curi & Co. of New Albany, Ind., $100 worth of groceries.

C. L. Hoover & Co. druggists of New Albany, big consignment of drugs and oil shipped to Cooper.

Dr. Harter Medicine Company of St. Louis a merchandise, $85.

The J. M. Walcott Company of New York, thirty cases of Canadian Club whiskey, worth $15 a case.

Widnack, Mulhauser & Co. of Cincinnati, twelve cases of beer.

Lawrenceburg Roller Mill Company, twenty-five barrels of flour, $75.

Barnes & Stewart of Benton Harbor, Mich., 15 sets of first class furniture.

The J. M. Walcott Company of New Albany, one carload of flour, Diamond brand, and 35 barrels of flour in addition.

Artley Bicycle Company of Sandusky, O., one bicycle.

Engles & Ludwig of Sandusky, wine and brandy valued at $133.23.

The Alpine Safe Company of Cincinnati, merchandise valued at $1,398.

The American Sewing Machine Company of Cincinnati, machines $100.

The Cincinnati Cork Company, corks $100.

The Union Manufacturing Company of Toledo, three sets of chairs, $200.

The Cortland Wagon Company of Cortland, N. Y., three spring wagons.

Besides these there are hundreds of others, who hoped to aggregate thousands of dollars worth of property.

Wayne Dameron, who keeps a saloon and liquor store at Catlettsburg, was one of the men from whom the "gang" bought whiskey, for which they always paid him.

Dameron is under bond, while Hall and Cooper are under lock and key, counting the distance and the days that intervene between Covington and Sing Sing.

PULPIT PATRIOTISM.

ELDER E. L. POWELL OF LOUISVILLE SPEAKS PLAINLY.

He Rejoices in the Disappearance of Partisanism, and Opposes the Union of Church and State.

Elder E. L. Powell, formerly of this city, preached an eloquent sermon at the First Church in Louisville Sunday evening on "Patriotism," choosing as his text Psalm cxviii, 5-6: "If I forget thee, Jerusalem, let my right hand forget its cunning; if I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth."

"In this sentence," said the Minister, "is expressed the intense passion of a patriot for his native land. Jerusalem held in her precincts nothing more sacred than the lowly lute of her people. To the Jew there was no city like unto Mt. Zion, the joy of the earth, the fairest flower of them all. To read the history of Jerusalem is to read one long story of patriotism. Patriotism is now fighting for liberty and battling for the uppermost. So long as patriotic men are at the head of the press will the march keep for First of all, we should thank God for our country. Some one asked me the other day if I had read 'The Man Without a Country,' by Edward Everett Hall, which is a remarkable story. It is the history of a prisoner, who when he was brought before Court for trial, vehemently claimed, 'May I never see a land of the United States again?' The Judge, with the consent of the President, had the man sent away to an island in midocean. Here he lived in misery—a man without a flag, a man without a country. When he finally died there was found marked in his Bible the passage, 'He longed for a country, even a heavenly one.' So, friends, thank God that we have a country, the grandest the sun ever shone upon. I tell you patriotism is a religious emotion. We love our country for our early associations; its glory is our glory, its life is our life, its shame our grief. In its earth sleep those who have given up their lives for it. We should love our country because of its beauties—the beautiful situation, the rocks and hills, mountains and valleys, streams and rivulets. I dare not tell you of the history of America; I dare not recite its glories. America is a theme at times as plaintive as the sound of an Aeolian harp; again as jubilant as the peals of an organ, at times speaking persecution and then victory. It is a land where is found liberty of the press, and, above all, religious freedom. Why, friends, do we not appreciate the precious riches which we have in this glorious land?

"But patriotism is more than a sentiment. One does not reach its end by dealing in flowers of rhetoric. It means loyalty, active and passive. It means the Nation's laws. It means that man is more than money. As the great Bishop of Massachusetts said in Westminster: 'A Nation is the making-place of men.' By the standard of men is a Nation judged today and a foregone call. Show me your men, show me the height of manhood you have.' When manhood ascends in quality the Nation rises. Give us men who are true, give us men who are good Christians, who are good leaders in good deeds. The true patriot will pray for peace. I admire the Southern man who maintains that he was right in taking up arms in '61; I also admire the man of the North who stands up for his convictions, but realize that they are under one flag, in one country. The true patriot is he who seeks to promote fraternity. And so I am glad that the G. A. R. has been invited to this city and I shall join heartily in welcoming them here. This obligation of patriotism is an evidence of true patriotism.

"I do not mean to provoke the displeasure of any one in this congregation, but if there be any among you who wish to unite Church and State, who wish to make the Public Schools a part of the Church, let them put them under a European head, all I have to say is that such a man is no American; he is false to American principles, false to his countrymen."

The Hebrew-speaking shirtmakers of New York, to the number of nearly 9,000, went on a strike Saturday, and 300 shops, which had not in the past week or two known a Sabbath quiet except on Saturdays, were deserted.

Our temperance friends will be delighted to learn, no doubt, that the new Democratic Tariff reduces the duty on brandy to $1.80 per gallon. Under the McKinley Law it was $2.50.

It is to be hoped that The Bulletin's readers will on account proceed to lay in some of those $40 suits of clothes which can be bought now for $30 according to the Free-trade Editor's advertisement.

On the basis of last year's importations, the Democratic Tariff reduces the duties on laces and embroideries $1,237, 890. This will be good news to the laboring men who work on our city streets for $1.25 a day, whose wives and daughters wear $40-a-yard laces. Besides, it will help them to pay the extra price which the new Tariff puts on their sugar.

The eminent philosopher of The Bulletin is continually comparing prices and things of this year with prices and things of last year. Sonny, last year was the first year of the Democratic panic. Why don't you compare prices and things of this year with prices and things of the year before last year? That was the last year of Republican prosperity.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania is in a state of ferment because WILLIAM M. SINKLER of The Philadelphia Record, the candidate for Governor, has declared that the state fight is a fizzle, and that the Philadelphia Democrats have sold out the party. Keep your eye on Pennsylvania, gentlemen; this is a bad year for Democrats in that state—and in every other state.

REVIEWING trade for the past week R. G. DICK & Co. say plenty of material for encouragement and also for discouragement can be found by those who seek that and nothing else. But business men who want to see the situation exactly as it is, find accounts so conflicting that it is difficult to strike a balance. In the aggregate business is about a tenth larger than last year, but still falls about 50 per cent below a full volume for the season.

A few days ago The Bulletin, which is energetic and enterprising only when it comes to finding more nests, printed the following, with gorgeous headlines, in its editorial column:
DOWN COME THE PRICES.

Suits That Cost $40 Under the McKinley Tariff Are Now Offered at $35.

The following is taken from a circular issued by one of the large importing and tailoring firms of Cincinnati and speaks for itself:
Dear Sir: Now that the Tariff Bill is settled, and business in general is assumed to be more prosperous condition, the effects of which are already felt, we kindly call your attention to the fact that in order to convince your friends that you are enjoying this prosperity you must not neglect personal appearance. "It is the barometer of success." In the anticipation of a prosperous season our importations have been larger than usual, and our stock, which is now complete, sparkles with beautiful and pleasing effects. We have purchased a large assortment of English suitings of one of the most renowned manufacturers, which in the past we have sold for $40. We will quote this line for our patrons at the uniform price of $35 to suit the season. This is a saving of $10, nearly 25 per cent, on a suit, under the Democratic Tariff.

The Bulletin would have its readers believe that the millennium has come—a belief that is completely dispasted by the following letter from the largest importing house in its line in the United States, E. H. VAN INGEN & Co., New York. They say:

"Messrs. Hechinger & Co., Mayville.
—Dear Sirs: The new Tariff Bill reduces the rates of duty herein provided for manufacturers of wool shawl take effect January 1, 1890. Consequently the prices of woolen goods will not be affected during this present autumn season.
"Under the old law, which will remain in force until next January, the duty is 50 per cent ad valorem and 44 cents per pound weight.
"Under the new law the duty will be 50 per cent ad valorem. The reduction of duty, therefore, is 44 cents per pound weight.
"The average weight of double-width spring wools for men's wear is sixteen ounces, the reduced cost will be 44 cents. The average weight of double-width full wools for men's wear is twenty-four ounces, and the reduced cost will be 96 cents.
"In a general way, therefore, after January 1st next, our double-width foreign spring goods of about sixteen ounces weight will be sold at 50 cents per yard less than now, and double-width foreign full goods of about twenty-four ounces weight at 75 cents per yard less. Lighter weight goods will have less reduction and heavier weights will have more.
"American goods, having been already somewhat reduced in the last spring and the present fall seasons, will therefore not generally be subject to as much reduction as the foreign goods.
"Foreign wool will be admitted free at once, but it will take several months to produce goods from such wool, and therefore there can be no reduction in foreign or domestic goods during the present season. Yours truly,
"E. H. VAN INGEN & Co."

APPOMATTOX.

Storm of Disapproval Over the Name of the Post Office.

The Citizens of the Historic Village Wanted the Name "Surrender."

But Now it is the Unanimous Opinion of Co-Confederates That the New Name is Intended to Disgrace the People of Virginia and the South.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The storm of disapproval occasioned by the naming of the old Appomattox post office "Surrender" has placed the post office officials on the offensive. When the postmaster general approved of the change of name he saw nothing wrong in the new designation of the historical spot, but now that the unanimous opinion of co-Confederates has been expressed that the name is intended to disgrace the people of Virginia and the South, it is realized that some one else had better be held responsible. A. J. Appomattox, general manager of the Appomattox paper, said Monday morning that the papers in this town case and they told the story.

In July last the postmaster at Appomattox, William J. Tucker, a relative of the famous ex-Confederate cavalry general, forwarded the recommendation of leading citizens with a letter in his own hand. He said that as the county seat had been moved on account of fire from Appomattox to Nebraska, about three miles away, the name "Nebraska" being changed at the same time to "Appomattox," it would be necessary to give a new name to the old office.

The letter explained that as Lee's surrender had taken place at Appomattox, it was Ross's judgment and that of the citizens of the place that the name of "Surrender" would be appropriate. The recommendation was endorsed by Henry St. George Tucker, the democratic member of congress from the district, and another paper recommending the change in the name of "Nebraska" in Appomattox county to "Appomattox" was likewise endorsed by Mr. Tucker.

In the course of official routine, when the case was reached the approval of the department was stamped upon the recommendation of the postmaster and member of congress and the name was publicly made of the change of names. While the department can claim complete exemption from responsibility in suggesting a name, which the Virginia papers consider as an outrage to southern sentiment, it can not be divorced from the responsibility which attaches to the execrable taste which put such a name in the postal bulletin.

In response to appeals and protests of the press of Virginia and the entire south, Postmaster General Russell will make haste to select a more suitable designation for the burnt-out office of Appomattox. So far as the department is officially informed, not the slightest objection has been received. There is no protest by mail, nor has there appeared any visitor from Virginia to object to the use of the word "Surrender" as applied to the spot where the confederacy died.

A Six-Year-Old Burglar.
AKRON, O., Sept. 25.—Samuel, six-year-old son of Carpenter John Stern, was arrested on a charge of larceny in glory. He confesses to stealing property amounting to $500 in value. He is too young to send to the reformatory, and the court is unable to decide how he shall be punished.

Peckles, one of its officers, came into the hall shortly before the meeting was to open, and, saluting those present, instantly dropped dead as the words "Good evening" left his lips. Heart disease was the cause.

HARTFORD, O., Sept. 25.—When Miss Lydia McCoy returned from Lebanon Monday she found that some light-fingered person had relieved her of her reticule, which contained $28 in money and two promissory notes which called for $100. ## FEDERATION OF EMPLOYES.

Under Discussion at Baltimore, and Baltimore, Sept. 24.—Monday forenoon a grand street parade was participated in by the grand lodge of trainmen and representatives of five kindred organizations. To the trainmen representatives of the trainmen, brotherhoods of locomotive engineers, conductors, and telegraphers and of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association met in secret session and discussed various questions relative to betterment of the condition of railway employees. Grand Master Wilkinson, of the trainmen, DeLoe, of the engineers, and Grand Master of the trainmen, and second vice grand master of the trainmen, and others spoke.

As given out after adjournment, the remarks strongly criticized Debs and the A. R. U. The speakers, while approving a general affiliation of the bodies represented, were not hopeful of a consummation of the plan because of the conflicting interests. It was the general opinion of those present, however, that some action by the six bodies will be taken, and that ultimately the federation will be formed. Many of the representatives expressed the opinion that if formed the federation would oppose the A. R. U., but would invite individual members of that body to join the new organization.

ROMANTIC WEDDING.
A Couple Met Unexpectedly, and Hymen Does the Rest.
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 25.—A romantic wedding attended the visit of Secretary Hoke Shuford to this city. An excursion train came to Thomasville from Waycross, and among the passengers were Mr. E. P. Milner, a contractor, who lives at Valdosta. An excursion train came from Troy, Ala., and among the passengers was Miss George Parker, daughter of one of the two young people had been deeply attached to each other, but the young lady's family objected.

Now, neither of the couple knew the other was coming to the city at Thomasville. But they met, and it didn't take them long to decide that this was "now or never." A marriage license was secured, a minister summoned, and a private but very happy wedding occurred in the parlors of the Stewart house late in the afternoon.

Mr. Milner took his bride with him to Valdosta when the excursion train returned, leaving a note for her friends who had accompanied her from Ozark, and sending a telegram to her father. The bride is a daughter of George J. W. Parker, ordinary of Dale county, Ala., and belongs to one of the best families in the state.

TALMAGE'S TABERNACLE.

An Angel Admire of the Doctor Has a Plan For Rebuilding It.
NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—U. P. Stanton, a septuagenarian admirer of Rev. Dr. Talmage, has conceived a grand new plan for rebuilding the Tabernacle for the erection of a new Brooklyn tabernacle, and the trustees have promised to give it a careful consideration.

He proposes an amount of $1,000 and $100 bonds, noninterest bearing, and payable in twenty years. Each bond is to be made valuable by a picture of the tabernacle and of Dr. Talmage and his autograph.

Mr. Stanton thinks that $300,000 would be raised in this manner, and that very few bonds would ever be presented for payment, owing to their value as souvenirs.

Family Poisoned.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Anne Osborne, a widow, living at No. 114 North Second street, and five other persons, members of her household, were poisoned mysteriously Monday morning by coffee.
